

Contents

Introduction	xi
Emmanuel SANDER
 Part 1. Comparative Perspectives on Metaphors in Education.	 1
 Chapter 1. Successes and Setbacks of Metaphors in Education.	 3
Emmanuel SANDER, Joanna BLOCHOWIAK and Yves GERBER
1.1. Introduction	3
1.2. The metaphoricity of antimetaphorics	5
1.3. The interpretive approach, the need to trust metaphors	8
1.4. Cognitive approaches to metaphor	11
1.4.1. Traditional approaches to metaphor	12
1.4.2. Contemporary approaches	14
1.5. Metaphorical uses by the great figures in education	21
1.6. Conclusion	26
1.7. References	28

Chapter 2. Metaphor: The Anchor and Driver of Conceptual Development 33Emmanuel SANDER, Laura LEON PEREZ, Yves GERBER and Catherine RIVIER

2.1. Introduction	33
2.2. Beyond the classical approach to concepts: concepts have a heart	37
2.2.1. The classical approach to concepts: concepts as boxes.	37
2.2.2. Prototypes at the heart of concepts.	39
2.2.3. Abstract concept prototypes	40
2.3. School-taught or not, concepts out of boxes	43
2.3.1. Metaphors: props, obstacles and springboards for learning	44
2.3.2. The metaphors of arithmetical notions	46
2.4. Conceptual development from a lifespan perspective	49
2.4.1. Concepts developing throughout life	49
2.4.2. At the origin of the Mother Earth metaphor, a rise in abstraction	51
2.4.3. Some living things more living than others	53
2.5. Supporting conceptual development	55
2.5.1. Semantic recoding	55
2.5.2. Metaphorical framing in support of semantic recoding	58
2.6. Conclusion	62
2.7. References	64

Chapter 3. Teaching Metaphors and Pedagogical Conceptions 75

Katarina GVOZDIC and Catherine RIVIER

3.1. Introduction	75
3.2. Metaphorical collusions rich in inferences	77
3.2.1. Metaphors of teaching	77
3.2.2. Different metaphors, different inferences	79

3.3. The conceptions underlying teaching metaphors	82
3.3.1. Metaphors of transmission and participation	82
3.3.2. An intuitive conception of teaching	84
3.4. Not so dichotomous pedagogical practices	86
3.4.1. Pedagogies inspired by explicit instruction	87
3.4.2. The so-called “active” pedagogies	88
3.5. Metaphor as a driving force of transformation in teaching	91
3.5.1. An evolution in conceptions	92
3.5.2. Adapting one’s teaching	94
3.6. Conclusion	95
3.7. References	97

Part 2. The Transformative Potential of Metaphors in Educational Practices. 103

Chapter 4. Metaphors of Assessment Practices: The Diversity and Evolution of Teachers’ Evaluative Stances. 105

Katarina GVOZDIC, Stéphanie NAUD and Walther TESSARO

4.1. Introduction	105
4.2. Classroom assessment practices: from measurement to professional judgment	107
4.2.1. A problematic subjectivity	107
4.2.2. An assumed subjectivity	109
4.3. The teacher’s assessment activity seen through metaphors	112
4.4. Investigating assessment stances in preservice teachers	115
4.4.1. Presentation of the study	116
4.4.2. Results	118
4.4.3. Perspectives	120
4.5. Conclusion	121
4.6. References	123

Chapter 5. Differentiation Through the Lens of Metaphors 131

Stéphanie NAUD

5.1. Introduction	131
5.2. Differentiation: an extended conceptual framework	134
5.2.1. Differentiation and educational justice	134
5.2.2. Student diversity or heterogeneity	139
5.2.3. Conceptions of difference and of intelligence. . . .	142
5.3. Metaphors of differentiation practices	145
5.3.1. Applicationist approach versus regulatory approach	145
5.3.2. Scaffolding: a form of regulation with multiple metaphorical sources.	148
5.4. Deviation and change of course	151
5.5. Conclusion	155
5.6. References	157

Chapter 6. Metaphors for Developing Teacher
Professional Identity 169

Géry MARCOUX and Nilima CHANGKAKOTI

6.1. Introduction	169
6.2. Thinking about and developing the teacher's professional identity	172
6.2.1. An identity under construction	172
6.2.2. Identity tensions and strategies for preservation or transformation	173
6.2.3. Roles inseparable from identity.	174
6.3. Methods designed to understand and support the development of teachers' professional identity.	175
6.3.1. Metaphors about in-service teachers.	176
6.3.2. Metaphors in teacher training	177
6.3.3. Evaluation of two proven methods to understand the complexity of the profession.	184
6.4. Conclusion	187
6.5. References	189

Chapter 7. Metaphors and Reflective Practice in Teaching	195
Yves GERBER and Géry MARCOUX
7.1. Introduction	195
7.2. Addressing professional complexity through reflexivity	197
7.3. Metaphors: tools for reflexivity	199
7.3.1. Formats promoting reflection	199
7.3.2. Levels, or thresholds of reflexivity.	200
7.3.3. Use of metaphors in sustaining reflective practice	201
7.3.4. Models conducive to the use of metaphors.	203
7.4. Using metaphors in order to develop reflexivity	206
7.4.1. Analyzing metaphors	207
7.4.2. Generating metaphors.	207
7.4.3. Proposing metaphors	210
7.4.4. Comparing two metaphors.	211
7.4.5. Implementation and limits of metaphorical usages for the development of reflexivity	211
7.5. Conclusion	213
7.6. References	214
 List of Authors	 221
 Index	 223