Introduction	xxv
Chapter 1. Space Strategy: From Words to Actions	1
1.1. Geostrategy of space and space strategy	1
1.2. Principles and methods to the systemic analysis approach	6
1.3. Debris, laser and spaceplane	10
1.4. Conclusion	14
Chapter 2. Strategic Space: What Are the Limits?	17
2.1. Physical limits of outer space	17
2.2. Functional limits of space and outer space	26
2.3. Judicial limit of outer space	36
2.4. Conclusion	41
Chapter 3. How Can We Reach Space and Then Act Within It?	43
3.1. Piercing the gravitational opacity	43
3.1.1. How to reach space?	44

3.1.2. What are the trajectories followed by spatial vehicles?	47
3.1.3. How to navigate in space?	50
3.2. Utilizing physical and radioelectric radiation	52
3.3. Space positions worth occupying or controlling	57
3.4. Conclusion	72
Chapter 4. Space: What Are the Strategic Stakes?	73
4.1. Centripetal force of terrestrial strategic stakes	74
4.2. Centrifugal weakness of an autonomous strategic space factor	79
4.3. Space as strategic vector of information dominance	86
4.4. Conclusion	93
Chapter 5. Fighting Against Earth from Space?	97
5.1. Militarized space: global support	99
5.2. Weaponized space: celestial offensive	106
5.3. “Martialized” space: the alternative way.	112
5.4. Conclusion	116
Chapter 6. Fighting Against Space from Earth?	121
6.1. Space situational awareness	123
6.2. Whoever controls the low ground controls the high ground	128
6.3. Space and nuclear: deterred deterrence?	134
6.4. Conclusion	139
Chapter 7. Combat within Space?	141
7.1. Small Earth space strategy	142
7.2. Strategic expansion of aerospace	155
7.3. The great lunar and Lagrangian strategy	161
7.4. Conclusion	172
Chapter 8. Twelve Principles of Space Strategy	175
8.1. The four “preliminary principles” of space strategy	176
8.1.1. Know what is happening in space	177
8.1.2. Elicit a sense of wonder turned toward the stars.	180
8.1.3. Inform and train.	182
8.1.4. Invest in the long term	185
8.2. The four “cardinal principles” of space strategy	188
8.2.1. Access space autonomously.	189
8.2.2. Protect or attack the low ground to defend or defeat the high ground.	193
8.2.3. Neutralize without destroying	198

8.2.4. Recreate the fog of war to one’s advantage.	199
8.3. The four “complementary principles” of space strategy.	202
8.3.1. Take advantage of the specificities of space	203
8.3.2. Promote and protect non-physical lines of communications.	205
8.3.3. Develop space resilience.	207
8.3.4. Contribute to the global strategy	211
8.4. Conclusion	214
Chapter 9. Moving Beyond Space Strategy	215
9.1. The four “i”s: indispensable, invisible, imaginary, inescapable	218
9.2. Space warrant to and part of mankind’s global commons.	225
9.3. Space: platform for irenology	229
9.4. Conclusion	232
Conclusion	235
