
Contents

Foreword	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Introduction	xv
Part 1: A Global Framework for the Governance Process and Indicators of Sustainable Performance	1
Chapter 1. The Governance Process	3
1.1. Enterprise governance	3
1.2. Strategic business development	8
1.2.1. The global environment	8
1.2.2. Stakeholders	14
1.2.3. The structuring forces of companies	16
1.2.4. Strategic analysis	23
1.2.5. Actors	28
1.3. Taking into account corporate social responsibility: the governance process	28
1.3.1. CSR: a sustainable performance lever for enterprises	28
1.3.2. Companies are more and more concerned	30
1.3.3. The challenge of CSR for enterprises	31
1.3.4. The opportunities of CSR for enterprises	33
1.4. Translation of strategic objectives at the level of operational processes	36
1.4.1. Management by processes	36
1.4.2. Projects for improvement and resource mobilization	40
1.4.3. Human resource, skill and talent management	43

1.5. Monitoring objective achievement and risk control	44
1.5.1. The “balanced scorecard”	44
1.5.2. Risk mapping and the COSO framework	47
1.5.3. Compliance	51
1.6. The role of decision-makers in the governance process	52
1.6.1. Executives: what are they for?	53
1.6.2. The Executive	54
1.7. Case studies: assessing the maturity of the governance process	58
1.7.1. Gexpertise Group: assessing the maturity of the governance process without CSR	58
1.7.2. L’Oréal: assessing the maturity of the governance process with CSR.	62
Chapter 2. The Process of Creating Product Offerings	67
2.1. Introduction.	67
2.2. The business’ economic environment and its ecosystem or “humus”	73
2.2.1. Innovation and start-up	75
2.2.2. Economic intelligence	78
2.2.3. Strategic marketing (or “upstream” marketing)	80
2.3. Exploitation of the business’ key assets or “roots”	83
2.3.1. Identification and evaluation of competencies and key assets: use a methodology	85
2.3.2. The value of informational assets	88
2.4. Best practice in operations involved in the process or the “trunk”	90
2.4.1. Product design: defining the product offering	93
2.4.2. The business model.	94
2.4.3. Industrialization.	96
2.4.4. Start of production	100
2.4.5. Launch on the market	101
2.4.6. Appraisal.	103
2.4.7. Best practice in executing the process of creating product offerings	103
2.5. Case study: assessing the maturity of the offer creation process	105
2.5.1. Safran Group	105
2.6. Indicators of the performance of the offer creation process	109

Chapter 3. The Process of Product and Service Production	111
3.1. The strategic importance of the “supply chain” within digital development.	111
3.2. Description of the “supply chain” process.	113
3.3. Good practices and performance indicators for operations involved in the production process.	115
3.3.1. Result indicators	117
3.3.2. Activity indicators	118
3.4. The economic performance of the processe	120
3.4.1. ABB–ABC–ABM: a management tool to help make decisions under certain conditions	120
3.4.2. ABB–ABC–ABM: the logical sequence of implementation (ABB, then ABC, and then ABM)	121
3.4.3. Using ABB–ABC–ABM as a tool for “operational management control”	124
3.4.4. Approach to implementation and traps to avoid	125
3.4.5. Links with processes	127
3.5. The big picture of performance in the “supply chain” process	129
3.6. Case study: assessing the maturity of the supply chain process.	131
3.6.1. Air France	131
 Part 2: Focus on Medium- to Long-term Performance Levers	 135
 Chapter 4. Digital Transformation	 137
4.1. The importance of managing issues concerning the “digital transformation”	137
4.1.1. How can we digitize while accounting for field realities?	139
4.1.2. How does the enterprise integrate changes in its environment into its organization?	139
4.1.3. What impacts do decisions have on the environment and stakeholders?	140
4.1.4. What measures are taken to ensure that offers conform to customers’ emotions and expectations?	141
4.1.5. How can we measure the operational performance of different lines of products and services?	142
4.2. The importance of monitoring digital developments.	142
4.3. Artificial intelligence and robotization.	143

4.4. Case study: assessing the maturity of digital transformation	145
4.4.1. Lise Charmel	145
Chapter 5. Enterprise Culture	147
5.1. The importance of enterprise culture for performance	147
5.1.1. New criteria for enterprise performance	148
5.1.2. A key factor in performance	148
5.1.3. Can an enterprise's culture stifle progress and innovation?	149
5.1.4. Enterprise culture: a sustainable resource and a competitive advantage	149
5.2. Case study: assessing the maturity of enterprise culture	150
5.2.1. H30	150
Chapter 6. Ethics and Compliance	153
6.1. The importance of ethics and compliance issues for performance	153
6.2. Case study: assessing the maturity of ethics and compliance aspects	155
6.2.1. iXBlue	155
Chapter 7. Brand Image and Reputation	157
7.1. The importance of brand image and reputation management for performance	157
7.1.1. Brand image	157
7.1.2. Brand image measurement criteria	158
7.1.3. Anticipation analysis	158
7.1.4. Reputation	158
7.1.5. Means	159
7.1.6. Communicating values	159
7.1.7. The enterprise's attractiveness	160
7.1.8. Brand image deterioration	161
7.1.9. Rumors and e-reputation	162
7.1.10. Performance and sustainability	163
7.1.11. Conclusion	164
7.2. Case study: assessing the maturity of brand image management	164
7.2.1. L'Oréal	164

Chapter 8. Lean Management	167
8.1. The importance of “Lean management” concepts for performance	167
8.1.1. Toyota: the birthplace of Lean management	167
8.1.2. Exceptional performance through original practices	168
8.2. Measures of Lean performance	169
8.3. Lean management in the IT industry or IT departments of enterprises.	172
8.3.1. The problems inherent in traditional computer systems	172
8.3.2. The best practices of Lean IT.	174
8.4. Lean management in the service industries	174
8.5. What is a “Lean start-up”?	176
8.5.1. The motivation for performance in a Lean start-up	177
8.6. Conclusion	179
8.7. Case study: assessing the maturity of Lean management practices	180
Appendix	183
Glossary	187
References	197
Index	199