
Contents

Foreword: Thinking on Tourist Destinations as Complex Systems in Times of Uncertainty	xi
Salvador Anton CLAVÉ
Acknowledgments	xxvii
Introduction to the Authors of the Two Volumes	xxix
Introduction	xli
Sylvie CHRISTOFLE based on contributions by Franck DEBOS, David HURON, Jean-Christophe GAY, Bernard MASSIERA, Otto REGALADO-PEZÚA and Jacques SPINDLER
Part 1. Contextualization and Analyses in Times of Uncertainty	1
Chapter 1. Tourism in the Local and National Press: Study of the Impact on the Pre- and Post-Covid Discourse	3
Sascha DIWERSY, Jean-Christophe GAY, Véronique MAGRI and Laurent VANNI
1.1. Introduction.	3
1.2. Between health crisis and local anchoring: recent development in representations of tourism mediated by the journalistic discourse.	4

1.2.1. Presentation of the corpus (working hypotheses and intertextual distances)	4
1.2.2. Study of specificities	6
1.2.3. Specific co-occurrences around the root “touris*”	8
1.3. Change as a constant: representations of tourism through crises of contemporary society	10
1.4. Conclusion	13
1.5. References	13
 Chapter 2. Covid-19 Health Crisis and Tourism: Analyses in the 2020–2022 Francophone Scientific Literature	15
Cyril MARTIN-COLONNA and Boualem KADRI
2.1. Introduction.	15
2.2. A global pandemic as a disruptive factor and questions.	16
2.3. Research methodology	18
2.4. Analysis of the results of the selected journals (Espaces 2020, 2022 and Téoros 2020).	19
2.4.1. Les Cahiers Espaces 2020 (12 articles).	19
2.4.2. Téoros 2020 (18 articles)	23
2.4.3. Les Cahiers Espaces 2022 (16 articles)	27
2.5. Conclusion	31
2.6. References	34
 Chapter 3. Toward A Different Tourism? Theoretical Solutions to Consider, Avenues to Explore	37
Jacques SPINDLER and David HURON
3.1. From overtourism to sustainable tourism? Rethinking performance indicators.	38
3.1.1. The necessities of sustainable tourism.	39
3.1.2. Tourist preferences	42
3.2. From overtourism to sustainable tourism? Rethinking the messages to convey.	44
3.2.1. Digital marketing: a tool for new tourism?	45
3.2.2. “Demarketing”: a complementary tool for regulating tourist flows?	47
3.3. Conclusion	49
3.4. References	50

Chapter 4. Resilience of a Tourist Destination in the Post-Covid-19 Era: The Case of Val d'Europe Agglomération	55
Nathalie FABRY and Sylvain ZEGHNI
4.1. Introduction.	55
4.2. Theoretical framework: the adaptive resilience of an urban tourist destination	56
4.2.1. Resilience	56
4.2.2. Adaptive resilience in urban spaces	57
4.3. Post-Covid Val d'Europe: framework for participatory observation	58
4.3.1. The attractiveness strategy implemented by VEA.	58
4.3.2. Val d'Europe, a resilient territory?.	61
4.4. Conclusion	64
4.5. References	64
 Part 2. Tourism Agility: Between Technology and Society.	 69
 Chapter 5. Identification of Digital Skills: A Study of Peruvian Tourist Businesses	 71
Otto REGALADO-PEZÚA, Leonardo TORO and Juan Carlos SOSA VARELA
5.1. Introduction.	71
5.2. Theoretical framework	73
5.3. Contextual framework	77
5.4. Methodology	79
5.5. Results and conclusions	80
5.6. References	82
 Chapter 6. Artificial Intelligence and the Search for Meaning in Support of Marketing Agility in Tourism	 87
Denis BORIES and Paul-Emmanuel PICHON
6.1. From marketing agility to sense-making in the tourism sector.	88
6.2. Sensemaking	89
6.3. From open data to Datatourisme	91
6.4. The contributions of AI to data processing	92
6.5. The limitations of learning methods	94
6.6. Sensemaking to bring meaning to AI results	97
6.7. Conclusion	99
6.8. References	101

Chapter 7. Relationship to Otherness: The Role of Interactions Between Tourists and the Inhabitants of a Territory 105

Patrizia LAUDATI, Claudine BATAZZI and Henri ALEXIS

7.1. Introduction.	105
7.2. Context and issue	107
7.3. Inhabitant–tourist–place: the relationship with otherness	109
7.3.1. The relationship with others: inhabitant/tourist	110
7.3.2. The relationship with space: individual/place	111
7.4. The approach	111
7.4.1. Step one: the minor squares of Florence: an alternative choice for inhabitants	112
7.4.2. Step two: territorial identity: the images and imaginaries of tourist Nice according to its inhabitants	113
7.4.3. Step three: operationalizing the concepts	115
7.5. Conclusion	115
7.6. References	116

Chapter 8. Reconciling Tourism and Agricultural Agility: On-Farm Activities and “Agritourists” 119

Alexis ANNES, Jacinthe BESSIÈRE and Noémie RAVAS

8.1. Introduction.	119
8.2. Literature review.	120
8.2.1. Agritourism: a diversification activity at the heart of agricultural operations.	120
8.2.2. Agritourism: a quest for local traditions and nature.	121
8.2.3. Agritourism: an activity shaped by a collective imaginary.	122
8.3. Methodological approach	124
8.4. Results and discussion	124
8.4.1. What are the profiles of agritourists?	124
8.4.2. Connection to agriculture and the natural environment: motivations in line with existing literature	127
8.4.3. Food as the core of the agritourism experience	129
8.4.4. A singular imaginary of the rural and agricultural world.	132
8.5. Conclusion	137
8.6. References	138

Conclusion	143
Sylvie CHRISTOFLE
List of Authors for the Two Volumes	149
Index	153
Summary of Volume 2	157