
Contents

Foreword	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction	xiii
Part 1. Review of Publications	1
Chapter 1. From CSR to Business Models of Access to Goods and Services for All.	3
1.1. Corporate social responsibility (CSR)	3
1.1.1. Origins and definitions	4
1.1.2. The question “why?”: why should businesses adopt socially responsible behavior?	6
1.1.3. The question of “how?”: how can businesses implement socially responsible behavior?	21
1.1.4. Are we heading toward CSR 2.0?	26
1.2. Social models providing access for all – BOP/social business.	31
1.2.1. Introduction to poverty and market approaches	31
1.2.2. The set of BOP themes	33
1.2.3. The set of themes within social business	57
1.2.4. Conclusion of the review of publications on CSR/BOP/social business	60
Chapter 2. Strategic Renewal	63
2.1. Definitions and issues	64
2.1.1. Incremental change vs. radical change	64
2.1.2. Intentional change vs. unintentional change	65
2.1.3. Cognition vs. action.	65

2.2. Barriers to strategic renewal	66
2.3. Determinants of strategic renewal	66
2.4. Link between organizational learning and strategic renewal	67
2.5. Conclusion of the strategic renewal literature review	74
Chapter 3. Individual Competencies to Organizational Competencies	75
3.1. Theoretical analysis of the linkage of individual, group and organizational competencies.	76
3.2. Empirical analysis of the linkage of individual, group, and organizational competencies	78
3.3. Conclusion of the literature study on competencies	78
Conclusion to Part 1.	79
Part 2. Empirical Part of the Research	87
Chapter 4. Methodological Characteristics of the Empirical Study	89
4.1. Qualitative research methodology of exploratory nature.	89
4.1.1. Research of exploratory nature	89
4.1.2. Qualitative research.	90
4.2. General research design.	91
4.2.1. Identification of the case	92
4.2.2. Selection of projects studied at Danone and identification criteria.	101
4.2.3. Delimitation of the study period	105
4.2.4. Interviews	105
4.2.5. Selection of interviewees.	105
4.2.6. Other sources of information.	109
Chapter 5. Analysis of the Danone Case: Illustration of the Strategic Renewal Process Based on the SBOP Projects	113
5.1. The individual	114
5.1.1. Intuitions.	114
5.1.2. Acquisition of individual competencies.	128
5.1.3. Conclusion of the first level: the individual	169
5.2. The group.	169
5.2.1. Interpretation and integration	169

5.2.2. Acquisition of collective skills	203
5.2.3. Conclusion of the second level: the group	230
5.3. The organization	231
5.3.1. Institutionalization	231
5.3.2. Acquisition of organizational competencies	267
5.3.3. Analysis of the blocks and levers of the institutionalization and the development of organizational competencies	281
5.3.4. Conclusion of the third level: the organization	283
Chapter 6. Analysing Other Cases: Schneider, Renault, Essilor, Bouygues and Bel	287
6.1. Schneider Electric	287
6.1.1. 4I processes	288
6.1.2. Developing new competencies: individual, collective and organizational	292
6.1.3. Limits and prospects	293
6.2. Renault	294
6.2.1. 4I processes	294
6.2.2. Developing new competencies: individual, collective and organizational	297
6.2.3. Limits and prospects	298
6.3. Essilor	299
6.3.1. 4I processes	299
6.3.2. Developing new skills: individual and shared	304
6.3.3. Limits and prospects	305
6.4. BEL	305
6.4.1. 4I processes	306
6.4.2. Developing new competencies: individual and collective	309
6.4.3. Limits and horizons	309
Part 3. Discussion	311
Chapter 7. Theoretical Contributions	313
7.1. Managerial contributions	313
7.1.1. Managerial contributions for Danone	313
7.1.2. Managerial contributions for Schneider, Renault, Essilor and Bel	315
7.1.3. Managerial contributions for other businesses	317
7.1.4. Summary of this research's contributions to management	320

7.2. Humanist contributions	320
7.2.1. Development of poor countries and the role of multinational businesses.	321
7.2.2. The business's goal and the reconciliation of societal and economic dimensions	323
7.2.3. Relationship to reality	326
7.2.4. Summary of humanist contributions	327
7.3. Limitations	328
7.3.1. The decision to focus on an SBOP body	328
7.3.2. The timespan of the analysis	328
7.3.3. The author's involvement in SBOP approaches	328
7.3.4. Research perspectives	329
Conclusion	331
Appendix	335
Bibliography	347
Index	353